

Longford company bought out

One of the leading suppliers in industrial compressed air solutions, C&L Industrial Ltd, last week announced the acquisition of R.W. Harris & Co Ltd, Longford.

C&L Industrial Ltd is a specialist company, based in Galway, which has a nationwide network of distributor sales and service centres, to develop its operations in a burgeoning commercial region.

Established in 1982, R.W. Harris & Co Ltd, specialises in the sale and service of industrial compressed air equipment and high pressure cleaners. Over the past 24 years, Proprietor Bert Harris has developed a successful sales and service business within the local region.

Colum Whelan, Managing Director of C&L Industrial, a long term key supplier to R.W. Harris said: "We are delighted to be expanding our business operations into a growing commercial region such as Longford."

R.W. Harris boasts over two decades of local industry knowledge and expertise. "Building on these strengths will allow us to grow and develop the C&L nationwide sales and service capabilities," said Mr Whelan.

Bert Harris will continue to guide the Longford business for C&L. "For our newly acquired customers, except for a name change, it will be business as usual," he said.

R.W. Harris provides a comprehensive sales and service portfolio to industrial compressed air users in the region and services all of the well known industrial compressor brands including Ingersoll-Rand, Kaeser, Atlas-Copco and Fini to name but a few. The company employs 4 people.

C&L Industrial specialises in the sale, installation and service of a range of specialist industrial products and provides backup through a Nationwide Network of distributor sales and service centres.

C&L Industrial is the exclusive authorised distributor of BOGE compressed air equipment within the Republic of Ireland. Industry knowledge and expertise is assured with key personnel contributing some 30 years experience and know-how to the business.
